Too many wines with good fruit destroyed by brett. Oak under better control than in previous years, though one entry (15) kept out of gold because of oak level in an otherwise elegant wine. Three golds represent regional character well

Class Comments

As the profusion of Gold, Silver and Bronze medals indicates, a great class of young semillons from a great vintage. Anyone who thinks that semillons are all the same should taste these wines, and see the many faces of the variety. This class also vividly shows that screwcaps do not unduly inhibit development of young semillon.

Class Comments

Some excellent wines at the top end but disappointing to see so many prematurely developed dull stale wines.

Class Comments

Good class which caused lengthy discussion on past and future directions for Hunter style. One concern is continued use (though diminishing) of MLF; another is the care which must be used in selection and handling of oak. Finally, winemakers have to watch how quickly their wines develop.

Disappointing. Main issues were poor oak handling and oxidation.
