Class Comments

A good class to judge , evidence by high strike of medals. Generally generous and textural wines that will resonate with drinkers both new to Semillon and converted . Several wines showing green fruit character and hard acidity , unforgiving . We wonder if this acid will ever reconcile with the fruit ? Top wines were balanced and pure

Class Comments

Top wines not quite sitting together at the moment . Benefit from more time in oak ? Some ferment problems evident in this class..

Class Comments

Better wines showed good fruit ripeness and reasonable balalce, yet often lacked fruit purity. Many wines simple and commercial, and generally lacking interest. Many wines not physiologically ripe, the product of a very early vintage/ short ripening period?

Class Comments

Pretty handy class given the vintage conditions . Very few faulty wines. Good to see the winemakers working hard and understanding what is required in a given year . The only area of concern is acidity and tannin balance . More focus here would have resulted in more wines with generosity & Silkiness.

Class Comments

A great group of 2011's (and one sneaky 2012 just missing out). The best wines with great balance, clarity % purity. Vibrancy and freshness the key feature of the 2011's . Non medaled wines tended to imbalance of oak and /or acidity.

Class Comments

Pleasure to judge. Some fabulous expressions of what the Hunter does so well. The top 2006 wine looking youthful and has many years of life left. Very Vintage expressive class. The 2012's were green and tight & the best 12's showing more citrus& balanced acidity, good work. The 11's were generally strong showing finesse and volume - good drinking wine. One good 2010 bucking the warmer vintage trend

Class Comments

Is off dry Semillon an innovation these days in the HV? Maybe a class especially for these . These were generally lacking balance. The Gewurtztraminer is a lovely expression of the variety, but not super innovative. Top Vermentino is very interesting , but not quite the weight of fruit to handle all of the 'funk'.
